SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

SEPTEMBER 18

THE REPORT OF THE SPIES

Golden Text: "Jehovah is the strength of my life: of whom shall I be afraid?"—Psalm 27:1.

Lesson: Numbers 13:1 to 14:45.

Devotional Reading: Psalm 95:1-7.

Explanations and Comments

Twelve Spies Sent To Canaan, verses 1-20.—When encampment was made at Kadesh-Barnes, near the border of the Promised Land, Moses sent twelve spies over the border to ascertain the nature of the land, whether good or bad, whether strong or weak, and also facts about how they lived, whether in cities, camps, or strongholds. He also directed them to bring back specimens of the fruit they found.

"The land was ready for the people, but were the people ready for the land?" The report which Caleb and his company was to bring was to decide, not a question of geography, but a question of philosophy. It was to test the present capacity of the people of God, to determine whether the heart of Israel was ripe for its inheritance.—George Matheson.

"What we do in the trials always depends upon whether we see the difficulties in the light of God, or in the shadow of the difficulties."—G. Campbell Morgan.

The Journey Of The Spies, verses 21-25.—The spies proceeded to Hebron and into the Valley of Eschol. They cut down a branch with a single cluster of grapes so heavy that two men carried it. They also brought back a staff between them. Eschol means a cluster; it received its name from this incident, the writer of Numbers tells us. The spies also brought back pomegranates and figs.

The Majority and Minority Reports, verses 25-33.—On their return to Kadesh, the spies reported to Moses and Aaron and all the congregation. They showed the fruit they had brought back and declared the land to be exceedingly fertile, for that is the meaning of the word "floweth with milk and honey." Honey was of great importance to the Israelites, for it was the sweetest of all foods. The spies also reported that the land was a land of milk and honey, and that the people who dwelt in the land were strong; and the cities were fortified, and very great, and moreover, we saw the children of Anak [giants] there.

"What a difference it would make if all the butts of life could be changed to ands! The cities were great, and yet God was greater. The giants were strong, and yet God was stronger."

Appetizing Salads

This Healthful Addition To Menu Had Beginning In Early Roman Days.

The very appetizing—one could almost say "heavenly" salads which are served today had their beginning in early Roman days when green uncooked vegetables were eaten with salt sprinkled over them. Green was brought to Rome from Persia and eaten with bread, and celery was raised by the Romans because its delicate green looked well in garlands! The ancestor of our modern lettuce and endive grew wild on the banks of the Mediterranean in ancient times.

Salads fell into disfavor for a time and many people, chiefly masculine, spoke lightly of salads as "rabbit fodder." There is nothing difficult about the preparation of a salad which has "appetite appeal." A salad, to be at its best should have a flavorful dressing carefully blended with the other ingredients and should be as cool and crisp as possible. Care should be taken to arrange the salad attractively and garnish it attractively. Salad may be prepared in the morning and kept in the refrigerator.

Fish or meat salads are nourishing for the main course, a fruit salad may be served in place of dessert and a vegetable salad is both healthful and appetizing in place of hot vegetables.

EGGLESS MAYONNAISE

- 1/2 teaspoon salt.
- 1/2 teaspoon dry mustard.
- 1/2 teaspoon paprika.
- 1/2 teaspoon granulated sugar.
- Few grains cayenne.
- 3 tablespoons evaporated milk.
- 1/2 cup salad oil.
- 2 tablespoons vinegar or 1 tablespoon lemon juice.

Thoroughly mix dry ingredients. Add evaporated milk and beat thoroughly. Beat in salad oil gradually. Add vinegar, or vinegar and lemon juice, beating until mixture is smooth. Makes one cup.

A Costly Mix-Up

Perhaps the most unusual mix-up in magazine shops occurred recently in New York. Through a secretarial mistake, a famous writer sold the same story to two magazines—a weekly and a monthly. It appeared in the weekly, while the monthly was on the press. The presses were stopped and the story removed at a $10,000 expense, which the writer has naturally agreed to pay.

Reindeer Herd For North

Herd Of 3,000 Animals Approaching Mackenzie River Delta

The herd of Alaskan reindeer being driven slowly eastward to the Mackenzie River delta to furnish a reserve food and skin supply for the natives of that district, has now reached a point between Canning and Sadlerochit Rivers less than one hundred miles from the Alaska-Yukon border.

Starting two years ago from the west coast of Alaska, the herd of about 3,000 animals has been driven along the coast line over most difficult terrain which made progress slow and laborious. No reasonably accurate estimate could be made as to the exact time it would take for the journey, owing to lack of knowledge as to the difficulties facing the expedition.

It was learned from the Department of the Interior, which is sponsoring the movement, that satisfactory progress has been made and the herd may be able to cross the delta of the Mackenzie on the ice this winter.

The object is the Kittigazua Peninsula, a long arm jutting out into the Arctic Ocean just east of the mouth of the Mackenzie River. There three families of Laplanders, brought to Canada from their native land a year ago, are making all preparations for receiving and caring for the herd. They have built corrals, laid out grazing grounds and otherwise established themselves in readiness for their work.

EVERY WOMAN FEELS SHE SHOULD HAVE A WOOLLEN JACKET DRESS FOR FALL AND WINTER

Here's a beauty. The jacket-like blouse can be made in either of two ways. In the large sketch, the rever neckline, which is so generally becoming and popular is just as smart as can be. The miniature view shows it in a more severe collarless type that emphasizes the buttoned closing. The skirt is attached to a camello top. Inverted plaits at either side of the front, provide ample fulness.

A rum-brown tweed mixture made the original. You'll be delighted with its small cost.

It's so simple to fashion. Wool crepe, soft monotone woolen and rough crepe silk are also suitable. Style No. 840 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, 20 years, 36 and 38 inches bust.

Size 16 requires 2 1/2 yards 54-inch, with 1/2 yard 35-inch for camello and 1 1/2 yards 35-inch lining.

Price of pattern 25 cents in stamps or coin (coin is preferred). Wrap coin carefully.

End Lonely Vigil

Four Soviet Scientists Return From Bleak Arctic Wastes

Four Soviet scientists have ended a lonely two-year vigil in the bleak Arctic wastes of Northernland, during which their only contact with civilization was by radio. They have been relieved by four other observers, one of them a woman.

A brief wireless despatch from the icebreaker "Sibirskiyok," now engaged in Arctic exploration, reports that the party of four, headed by the geographer, Ushatv, were taken aboard after the relief party, sent out about the icebreaker, had taken over.

The woman member of the replacement party is Iri Rusinova, who although she is only 30, is a veteran expeditionary work. With three male colleagues, she will spend the next two years at the four outposts, whose only human inhabitants will continue their explorations and mapping of Northernland.

The four men who are returning were reported to be in excellent health despite the difficulties of their assignment.

World Court Is Fair

Smallest Nation Always Sure Of Getting Square Deal

The theory of the World Court and the League of Nations is that each nation has an equal say in the affairs, and equally certain of a square deal in any controversy. This was exemplified by the decision of the World Court handed down recently in a dispute between the small republic of Lithuania, and the mighty powers of Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan.

On the main point, which had to do with whether Lithuania had the power to sack a particular state official, the Court decided in favor of the republic.

It is a good thing that the international tribunals get a chance to show their impartiality sometimes, because it is a lesson to the world at large, and an assurance to the small nations that their interests are properly taken care of and no favors shown by the big fellows.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

HOLLAND BEET SOUP

- 1 pint strong beef stock.
- 2 tablespoons sugar.
- 1 teaspoon grated onion.
- 2 tablespoons vinegar.
- 2 beets.

Salt and pepper.

Add sugar, vinegar, salt and pepper, and grated onion to the stock. Boil together about ten minutes. Boil the beets in salted water. Peel and put through a coarse strainer. About five minutes before serving add beets to stock, heat and serve. Too long cooking will spoil the bright red color.

Canadian Clubs And Radio

Will Discuss Methods Of Co-Operation With Radio Commission

The executive committee of the Association of Canadian Clubs will approach the Dominion Radio Commission to discuss methods of co-operation, it was decided at the annual convention held in Regina.

The association took a definite step toward entering the radio field when, as part of the same resolution, it authorized the executive to propose a series of addresses to the public in connection with the Dominion broadcasting system which will shortly be established.

The understanding of the delegates was that the radio commission would be a fact in about two months time. Funds amounting to $500,000 are already available for the work of the commission, which will establish a trans-Canada chain of powerful stations. It has been stated that among the first work to be undertaken by Premier R. B. Bennett will be the organization of the commission. A further resolution passed by the delegates provided for the setting up within clubs of study groups for the intimate review of national problems.

The Transient Problem

Fear Expressed That It May Produce a New Criminal Class

If the movement of unemployed transients from place to place is allowed to continue it will produce a new criminal class from which Canada has hitherto been practically free. This is one of the findings of the committee of the Canadian Bar Association on the administration of criminal justice, and forms part of the committee report.

To cope with the transient problem the committee recommends active enforcement of the vagrancy sections of the Criminal Code, the criminal code "which seem to have been held in abeyance."

Legislation which would impose on every community responsibility for the maintenance of indigents produced in that committee a criminal code "which seem to have been held in abeyance."

Despite prevalence of conditions which might be expected to lead to crime there was no marked increase in criminality in Canada, during the past year, the committee found. Canadians had remained law-abiding.

U.S. Pilot Congratulates Canada On Part Played In Establishing Civil Aviation

Air transportation and radio communication will play a great part in carrying out the policies agreed upon at the Ottawa Imperial Conference, according to William F. MacCracken, Jr., of Washington, D.C. He urged Canada to promote aviation to its utmost.

Speaking before a service club meeting in Calgary, Mr. MacCracken, who is honorary secretary of the American Bar Association, declared aviation and radio would play an important part in world affairs.

Mr. MacCracken is a pilot of distinction and was in Calgary attending the annual convention of the Canadian Bar Association. He paid tribute to the Canadian government in establishing civil aviation and to the aid which Canada rendered the United States when it started organizing civil aviation six years ago.

THE HOUSE OF DREAMS-COME-TRUE

BY MARGARET PEDLES Author of "The Splendid Folly," "The Hermit of Port Man," "Hodder & Stoughton, Ltd., London."

A brief silence followed this announcement. Blaise was thinking, contentedly. So Madame de Varigny, despite her French name, and her French mannerisms, was an Italian! He might have guessed it from those broad, high cheek bones, those liquid, southern-dark eyes, and the coarsely black hair. Yet, except for a fleeting moment at Montevan, the idea had never occurred to him, and it had then been swiftly dissipated by Jean's explanation that the impressive-looking Cleopatra was the Countess de Varigny and her champion for the time being.

Italian! Blaise felt more convinced than ever now that Madame de Varigny's visit portended unpleasant developments. Something, a voice from the past, was about to break stridently on the peaceful present. He braced himself to meet the encounter whatever might be coming. Gaily he foresaw some kind of blackmail, and he thanked Heaven for Jean's absolute understanding and complete knowledge of the past and of all that pertained to his first unhappy marriage. There would be little foothold here for an attempt at blackmail, however skillfully worked, he reflected grimly.

He therefore responded civilly to Madame de Varigny's statement, apparently accepting it at its mere face value.

"I am surprised," he told her. "You have altogether the air of a Parisian. The Countess smiled.

"Oh, I had a French grandmother," she returned carelessly. "Also, I have lived much in Paris."

"Ah! that explains it," replied Torinarin, leaning back in his chair as though satisfied. "It's the influence of environment and heredity, I expect."

He was fencing carefully, waiting for the woman to show her hand. "I have also Corsican blood in my veins," pursued Madame de Varigny.

Then, as Torinarin made no answer, she leaned forward and said intently: "Do you know the characteristics of the Corsicans, Monsieur Torinarin? They never forget—negative!" her foreign accent increasing, as usual, with emotion of any kind. "The Corsicans always repays."

"Yes? And you have something to repay? Is that it?"

"Yes, I have something to repay."

"A revenge, in fact?"

She shook her head.

"No, I do not call it revenge. It is punishment—the just punishment earned by the man who married Nesta Freyne and brought her in return nothing but misery."

Torinarin rose abruptly.

"What have the affairs of Nesta Freyne to do with you?" he asked sternly. "As you are obviously aware, she was my wife. And I do not propose to discuss private personal matters with an entire stranger."

He moved towards the door. "I think our interview can very well terminate at that. I do not wish to forget that I am your host."

"Yes, more than that," said Madame de Varigny slyly. "You are my brother-in-law."

"What?" Torinarin swung round and faced her.

"Yes," she said. "The suavity was gone now, replaced by a curious deadly precision of utterance, enhanced by the foreign rendering of syllable value. 'I am—or was, until my marriage—' Margherita Valdi. I am Nesta's sister."

Torinarin regarded her steadily.

"In that case," he said, "I will hear what you have to say. Though I don't think," he added, "that any good can come of raking up the past. It is better—forgotten."

"Forgotten?" Madame de Varigny seized upon the unlucky word. "Yes, it may be easy enough when there is no one who took Nesta's young, beautiful life and crushed it; you who came like a thief and stole from me the one creature in the whole world whom I love—my bambina, my little sister."

"Oh, yes," her voice rose passionately. "Easy enough when there is another woman—a new love—with whom you think to start your life all over again! But I tell you, you shall not! There shall be no new beginning for you—no marriage with this Jean Peterson, with whom you are now so fond."

I forbid it!—with whom you are now so fond."

Blaise stemmed the torrent of her speech with an authoritative gesture.

"May I ask how the news of my engagement reached you?" he asked, his cool, dispassionate question falling like a hailstone, dropped into some mottled stream of lava.

"Oh, I have kept watch. I have the means of knowing. There is very little that has happened to you since—since I wrote to you of Nesta's death!"—she stumbled a little over the words, and Blaise, despite his anger, was conscious of a sudden flash of sympathy for her—"very little that I have not known. And this—your engagement, I knew of that when it was barely a week old."

"I'm really curious to know why my affairs should be of such surpassing interest to you. My engagement, for instance—how did you hear of it?"

"Oh, that was easy"—contemptuously. "There was another man who loved your Miss Peterson—the Monsieur Burke. I used him. I knew he was afraid that you might win her, and I told him that if ever you became engaged he must come and tell me, and I would show him how to make sure that you should never marry her. Oh! That was very simple."

"I'm afraid you promised more than you can hope to perform. I grant that you have every reason to dislike me—hate me, if you will. I acknowledge, too, that I was to blame, miserably to blame, for Nesta's unhappiness—as much in fault as she herself. But there is nothing gained at this late hour by apportioning the blame. We each made bad mistakes—and we have each had to pay the price."

"You're based on a very light price—comparatively," she commented with intense bitterness.

"Do you think so?"

"Something in the quiet, still utterance of the brief question brought her glance swiftly, curiously, back to his face. It was as though, behind those short words, she could feel the intolerable pressure of years of endurance. For a moment she seemed to waver, then, as though she had deliberately pushed the impression aside, she laughed disagreeably.

"Too light to satisfy her sister, at any rate."

Torinarin froze.

"It is fortunate, then, that my ultimate fate does not lie in your hands," he observed.

"But that is just what it does lie—in the palm of my hand—there!"

She flung out one shapely hand, palm upward, and pointed to it with the other.

"And now—see—I close my hand—so! . . . And this beautiful marriage of which you have dreamed, your marriage with Miss Peterson—it does not take place!"

"Are you mad?" asked Blaise contemptuously, experiencing all an Englishman's distaste for this display of unforced drama.

She shook her head.

"No," she said quietly. "I am not mad."

The air of theatricality seemed to fall suddenly away from her, leaving her a stern and sombre figure, invested with an intrinsic atmosphere of tragedy, filled with one sentiment only—the thirst for vengeance.

"No, I am not mad. I am telling you the truth. You can never marry Jean Peterson, because Nesta—your wife—still lives."

Torinarin fell back a pace. For one moment he believed the woman had gone genuinely mad—that by dint of long brooding upon how she might most hurt and punish the Englishman whom she had never forgiven for marrying her sister, she had evolved from a half-crazed mind the belief that Nesta still lived and that this she would be able to prevent his marriage with any other woman.

And then, looking into those seeming soft brown eyes with the granite hardness in their depths, he could see the light of reason burning steadily within that mad facade.

Madame de Varigny was quite sane, as sane as he was himself. And if so—

A great fear came upon him—the fear of a man who dimly senses the approach of some appalling danger and knows that it will find him utterly defenceless.

"Do you know what you are saying?" he demanded, his voice roughened and uneven.

"Yes, I know. Nesta is alive," she repeated simply.

"Alive?"

The word was wrung from him, hardly more than a hoarse whisper of sound. He swung round upon her violently.

"But you yourself wrote and told me of her death?" She nodded placidly.

"Yes, I wrote a lie."

"But the official information? We had that, too, later, from the French police, confirming your account. You are telling me," he added sternly, "Lies won't answer now."

"The need for lying is past," she answered with the most absolute calm. "The French police were quite truthful all they knew. They had found the body of a suicide, whom I identified as my sister. To strengthen matters I bribed someone I knew also to identify the dead girl as Nesta. She was a married woman, too, the poor little dead one! So it was quite simple. And I took Nesta home—home to Chateau Varigny. I had married by then. But she had learned of my marriage through friends in Italy and wrote to me from there, telling me of her misery with you and begging me to succour her. So I went to Italy and brought her back with me to Varigny. Then I planned that you should believe her dead. It was all very simple," she repeated complacently.

"But what was your object in all this? Why did you scheme to keep me in ignorance? What was your purpose?"

"Why?" Her voice deepened suddenly, the placid satisfaction with which she had narrated the carrying out of her plan disappearing from it completely. "Why? I did it to punish you—first for stealing my Nesta from me and then because, after you had stolen her, you brought her nothing but misery and heart-break. She was so young—so young! And you, with your hideous temper and your cold, formal English ways—you broke her heart, you crushed her!"

"She was old enough to come grudgingly with every man she met," came grimly between Torinarin's teeth. "No husband—English or Italian, least of all Italian—would have endured her conduct."

"She would not have endured her other men if you had loved her. She was all fire. And you—you were like a wet log that will not burn!" She gestured fiercely. "You never loved her! It was in a moment of passion—of desire that you married her!"

But you were sure, eventually, to meet some other woman and learn what love—real love—is. So I waited. And when I saw you at Montevan with Jean—I knew that the day I had waited for so long would come at last. I knew that your punishment was ready to my hand."

"Do you mean?" Blaise spoke in curiously measured accents—"do you mean that you deliberately concealed the fact that Nesta still lived so that—"

"So that you should not marry the woman that you loved when the time came! Yes, I planned it all! I kept Nesta safely hidden at Varigny, and I made little changes in her appearance—a woman can, you know—mockingly—the colour of her hair, the way of dressing it. Oh, just little changes, so that if by chance she was seen in the street by anyone who had known her as your wife she would not easily be recognized. Oh—once more with that exasperating complacency at her own skill in deception—"I thought of every little detail."

Torinarin stood listening to her silently, like a man in a trance. His face had grown drawn and haggard, and his eyes burned in their sockets. Once, as she poured out her story of trickery and deception, she heard him mutter dazedly: "Jean . . . Jean," and the anguish in his voice might have moved any woman to pity save only one who was utterly and entirely obsessed with the desire for vengeance.

But the intolerable suffering which had suddenly lanced his face and rimmed his mouth with tiny beads of sweat was meted and drunk to her. She glowered in it. This was her hour of triumph after the long years of waiting.

She smiled at him blandly.

"I think I have behaved very well," she pursued. "I might have waited till you were actually married. But I have no wish to punish the little Jean. She, at least, is on the square, as you say—though it would have revenged my Nesta well had I waited. You ruined Nesta's life; I could have ruined the life of the woman you love. I did think of it. Ah! You would have suffered then, knowing that the Jean you worshipped was neither wife nor maid, but—"

"Be silent, woman!"

NEW JOYS

New joys will bloom while years go by.

As roses greet the smiling sky, With every glad, recurrent June, And innets pipe their happy tune.

New joys will stretch their tendrils out To creep and climb and twine about Our lives till all is fair and bright, While wintry doubts and fears take flight.

New joys! Then yield to no dismay When these now cherished pass away.

For all things change and all are fleet, Most evanescent are most sweet.

Ah, trust the future; it will bring Glad days that shine and hours that sing.

Days even as dear and prized as these That now weave glowing tapestries!

Big Police Campaign

Scotland Yard Wages War On Highway Robbers

Moving with military precision, Scotland Yard recently began the biggest police campaign on record to crush the modern outlaw counterparts of England's most notorious highway robber, Dick Turpin.

Designed to end an alarming wave of road-side holdups which were believed to have been increased by a gang of gangster desperadoes from the United States, the police flying squads closed all approaches to London, stopped and inspected thousands of automobiles and placed a wide area under rigid supervision.

The operations, directed by Lord Trenchard, were on an unprecedented scale but public opinion backed the police action because of many bold robberies on the King's highway in the last two months.

In contrast to the blunderbuss and steel of the original Dick Turpin who terrorized the highways 200 years ago, the modern bandits have fast automobiles and many pistols. The British police are not armed, but there have been many demands by the public lately that they be provided with pistols.

The declaration of active war by Scotland Yard coincided with the arrival of a group of British gunmen who had been expelled from America. About 1,500 police combed the streets and roads.

British Made Cars

Stood Gruelling Test

Were One, Two, Three In Every Class During Alpine Contest

A terrific contest for automobiles was conducted when the International Alpine Trials were held. There were contests for four grades of cars, which had to drive over a long, steep, and tortuous course through the Alps.

A grueling trial of speed, and mechanical efficiency. Competitors were not permitted to put fresh water in their radiators, the ability to negotiate the hills without a "boil out" being one of the factors considered in the race.

Three made cars were one, two, three in every class, and sometimes four, five, and six as well. There were cars from France, Germany, Italy and other countries in the competition, and they were simply "blotted out."

Take Your Choice

A London dispatch the other day remarked that the name "airlin" comes from the fact that a British king once knighted a loin of beef, making it "Sir Loin." The dictionaries unhappily have a less romantic story. They say "airlin" is derived from the old French "surt" meaning "upon" and "long" meaning "loin."

Little Helps For This Week

"To believe in Christ is initial faith; to receive Him is appropriating faith; to understand Him is intelligent faith; to assimilate Him is active faith."—Cornelius Woolfink.

Helping others to the Bread of Life. These four lines by Frances Holman finely express what must be the deep longing of every sincere follower of the Christ:

This were my heaven; to be great enough To take into my soul the truth I see, And then to turn and break the bread thereof To feed the hunger of humanity.

Hail Insurance Rate

Saskatchewan Municipal Rate Fixed Same As Last Year

The Saskatchewan municipal insurance rate has been fixed for this year the same as that in effect last year. Decision respecting the new rate was reached at a meeting of the board in Regina.

The flat rate remains at four cents per acre, and the crop rate varies in the various local districts from four to 18 cents per acre.

This rate was based upon an estimated crop loss for the entire term which expires September 15, of $800,000. Actual loss as at August 29 was $750,000. Total business in force totalled $38,000,000.

It is usually easy to say that when a child is pale, sickly, peevish and restless, the cause is worms. These parasites range the stomach and intestines, causing serious disorders of the digestion and preventing the infant from deriving sustenance from food. Miller's Worm Powders, by destroying the worms, correct these faults of the digestion and serve to restore the organs to healthy action.

Another British Invention

Glowgram For Theatres Can Be Used In Dark

Theatres and cinemas will soon provide a new type of programme—called a glowgram—which may be read in the dark. Glowgrams are black cellophane, non-rustle, non-inflammable sheets with the printing in transparent type. All you have to do is to raise them so that the light of the stage or screen is behind them. The writing is then perfectly legible. They are a British invention.

I LIKE PROSPERITY

Everyone by this time is familiar with the article "I like Depression," which has gone the rounds of the press until the original writer has been lost in the whirl. It was an article which had the merit of looking on the bright side, making the best of things, and so on. In that lay its appeal.

It is human nature to make the best of things. Man is indubitably cheerful. If it were not for a continual striving to see the silver lining in the darkest cloud, he would never get over the frequent and disastrous storms that beset him.

But to face facts, nobody likes depression. When a man-made condition rises which bows the shoulders, brings wrinkles of care, drives people to despair, and tends to make them small and carping, it is not good. When the majority are distractedly struggling to gather in a few dollars, not to spend on themselves, but to turn over to creditors, it is not a happy state. When life revolves solely about the where-withal to maintain existence, it may develop thrift. But thrift is, after all, only one of the lesser virtues, to which others much more charming and worthy of development are sacrificed.

For that reason it is much more cheering to read the thoughts of a writer in the Weyburn Press who says frankly: "I like prosperity." So do we. Personally, we never had much of it, but the general atmosphere is pleasanter when prosperity reigns.

The writer gives his reasons: "I used to be able to get out the silver and take the family and the neighbor's family out to the lake or to the circus. Now the silver has no license and no tires, so we have to stay home."

"I don't like this horde of tramps we have around. There are three kinds, first the ordinary bum who never did work; second, the unfortunate whose condition is directly traceable to the depression and who blushes every time he has to ask for a meal; third, the young fellow who is just getting the habit of tramping. This depression is not good for any of them, and because I have to feed them from my meagre store, it isn't good for me."

"I would like to keep up my fees in my one service club. In prosperity we were always in funds. We were able to have kiddies' legs straightened, to give them holidays, to get artificial limbs for accident victims. How we loved to brighten sad lives. Now we cannot do these things we used to do. I like prosperity."

"I like to hear and see the factory wheels spinning, to see the contented faces of workmen in honest secure employment, to see them indulge their families in education and recreation. These are the people who have made Canada a clean and noble country."

"I like prosperity. I hate to see prominent men spending their time in selfish pleasures, at the same time grinding down those who work for them. I don't like to see that, but it is the effect produced; but I do like prosperity—for all—Ex."

Kamloops won the Western Canada polo championship by defeating High River two straight with total score of 20 to 7.

BEHOLD, I AM WITH YOU ALWAYS

The singular inaptitude displayed by our leaders in government, industry and finance suggests the terrible limitations of the human mind even when dealing with subjects proportioned to its powers. And it furnishes a mighty argument for the infallibility of the church in matters that so easily transcend those powers.

If God has willed to give men a certain knowledge of their ultimate destiny (as Catholics and Protestants alike believe He has); if he has willed to give them some knowledge of the supernatural order (as both Catholics and Protestants hold); and if He wished to consign this divine revelation to an inspired collection of books that we call the Bible (which Protestants accept as the one rule of faith and Catholics accept along with Tradition), then it logically follows that unless God wished men to fall into a spiritual confusion for worse than our present material muddle, He must have set up in the world an infallible teacher of faith and morals. "The church," observes Chesterton, "knows something that we cannot be expected to know, but should probably accept if we knew it."—Catholic Sentinel.

DON'T MARRY A NEWSPAPER MAN:

If a girl has the bad luck to fall in love with a member of the Fourth Estate she should—or if she is incapable of it, somebody else should—do something drastic about it. Her mother should take her in hand and marry her off to a wife-beater—a dishonorable, fly by night love racketeer—or even an over-officious provincial police officer—anything is better than the fate in store for her if she follows out her own plans, for if there really is a "fate worse than death," it is marriage to a newspaperman.

Girls, if you must marry a newspaperman, do it across the line where you can get out of it gracefully when you have found out that your husband loves his work so much that he'll do it for nothing.—Ex.

NOW IT'S COTTON ROADS

A workman had his shirt torn off by an asphalt distributor and it dropped to the bed of a new highway being built in Arkansas. Now engineers and cotton experts are seeing what can be done about getting a few cotton shirts in the base of every highway, and soon we may have "cotton roads." Believe it or not, the spot where the workman's shirt dropped was the only place that resisted cracking from mud and rain action, and it turned out that the cotton fabric, waterproofed with asphalt, was what did the trick. Since then experiments have been conducted with large-rolls of loosely woven cotton cloth laid on an asphalt base with more asphalt placed on top. The use of the cotton creates tensile strength just as fabric does in an automobile tire. Cotton growers are not at all sorry the workman lost his shirt.

On Saturday afternoon, Mr. J. P. Alexander, playing with Mr. Jos. Welsh, set a new course record of 73, four strokes better than the old record of 77. Mr. Alexander was 33 for the first nine, and with a little better luck on the second nine would have been even lower than the 40 he scored.—Red Deer Advocate. Mr. Alexander was a former resident of Pincher Creek.

A Swede, working on one of the farms in this district, visited a boot-legger's "joint" in a town less than 100 miles from Blairmore during the wet sport on Thursday last and asked for a drink of "good old squirrel whiskey." According to the story given The Enterprise, the bar tender said there was no squirrel whiskey in the house, but that he had some Old Crow. "Oh, Yudas priest," said the cautious Swede. "I don't want to fly. I just want to hop around a little."

HERE'S THE KIND OF WIFE TO GET

AMES, Ia., Sept. 12.—Mildred Baldus, 17, wanted a new ensemble so she made it herself. The entire outfit, including dress, hat, undergarments and a handbag, cost 35 cents.

The skirt and short jacket of the two-piece dress were made from chicken feed sacks, dyed a rose shade. The blouse and undergarments were made of flour sacks. The close-fitting hat and the bag were fashioned from pieces of osanburg left over when her mother made new chair covers. Dainty lace, given Mildred by her grandmother, trimmed the undergarments.

But when the outfit was shown at boys' and girls' achievement contests here, her brother was not content to bask in reflected glory.

"See that buckle on her hat and that other one there on her belt?" he questioned spectators. "She took them off my golf knicker."

Local and General Items

The Dominion parliament will open on October 6th.

A few days ago we overheard a fisherman tell the truth. He called the other fisherman a liar.

The Safeway store at Lethbridge was entered early Sunday morning and $243 in cash was stolen.

H. J. Wittich has been transferred from Cranbrook to the Lethbridge branch of the Crystal Dairy.

Jack McPhail has just died at Toronto. He was a pioneer English-Canadian Redemptorist missionary.

Pete McPherson and Joe Kidd were passengers on last week's freight train from Vancouver to Blairmore.

The Nash-Symington houses of the three prairie provinces have been sold to Western Grocers for one and a quarter million dollars.

An Italian miner named Franciaco Boechimuzzo was killed in the Big Horn and Saunders Creek coal mine on Wednesday of last week.

The death occurred at Macleod on Monday of Mrs. Isabella C. Maunsell, widow of the late George Maunsell, at the ripe age of eighty-five years.

The many friends of Mrs. John Herron, Pincher Creek, will regret to learn that she a few days ago had the misfortune to fall, injuring several ribs.

The Flying Hutchisons, for whom there had been considerable anxiety, following receipt of S.O.S. calls from near Greenland, are reported safe, having been forced down on a reef forty miles from Angmagssalik, Greenland.

Drumheller single men, when taken off the relief list, refused to accept harvest jobs. Just reminds us: How many miners who have been assisted by the farmers during the strike would be willing to in any way help the farmer?

Arrangements are being made to entertain those who have all summer been touring between the coasts via freight train. We understand that the various provincial governments have kindly decided to look after a share of them.

The council and school board at Cowley have decided to put a night watchman on duty, beginning at once. Ed. LaBrie has assumed the charge and will be sworn in as town police, authority being given him to question all night prowlers or loiterers.

Cranbrook had a visit yesterday from Fred Turnbull, who as a printer worked on the old Cranbrook Herald back in 1905 and 1906, when L. P. Sullivan was monoline operator on the same sheet. Mr. Turnbull is now running a newspaper at Red Deer, Alberta, the Red Deer Advocate, has a prosperous business and is mayor of the city. He is just making a motor trip through the country and is accompanied by his wife. He expects to go west as far as Creston and then return.—Cranbrook Courier.

A good Presbyterian minister-farmer, not far from here, was milking his cow that had taxed his patience severely. The pail was about full of foaming milk, when the cow kicked and overturned the pail. In righteous indignation he snatched up a club to strike the animal, but remembered the precepts of his religion. Dropping the club and in a voice trembling with anger, said: "I may not beat you, neither may I kick you, but I will twist your damned tail." And he did.

"That's fish in them streams," says Thomas Dean, of High River. West on the Highwood River from High River fisherman believed the greatest fish lived and there they went to wend their way, often to return with light baskets. But Mr. Dean was different. He went east to near the junction of the Highwood and the Bow. He returned with two giant trout, one about 24 inches long and weighing three pounds, 12 ounces, and the other practically the same size. High River fisherman, like the wise men, are now going eastwards.

Youthful Strength

Dr. Maenus Hirschfeld, the world-known authority on Sexology and Director of the Institute for Sexual Science of Berlin, Germany, created to help the millions of men and women who have lost or are losing their vital physical power. In his 35 years of practice and research, however, he realized that the weakening of man's glands was also responsible for other troubles: High blood pressure, hardening of the arteries, physical exhaustion after work or exercise, dizziness, depression, neurasthenia, etc.

All these troubles can be removed with Titus-Pearls. Numerous cases were treated by Dr. Hirschfeld in his Berlin Institute. L. S. (State Official; 60 years old, married) complained of physical exhaustion, dizziness and tremors. Was easily tired. Mental powers dull and slow moving. Physical powers had been incomplete for previous 5 years. Blood pressure too high. Given 2 Titus-Pearls 3 times a day. 2 weeks later the medical report on this man was: General health better, more vigor; dizziness much less and returning of power. Treatment continued and 2 weeks later L. S. reported again, this time to say that all weariness and exhaustion had gone; he felt fresh and buoyant. His blood pressure had fallen, and at 60 years of age he had regained the physical power and vitality that he had known in the prime of his life.

Start regaining your youthfulness now! Today! In 2 weeks time you will be aware of the new, virile force within you. Send $5.00 (cash registered or money-order) for 2 weeks treatment.

Probably the world's record in consideration for animals was established the other day in Montreal, when a man whose name was not recorded entered the photographic department of the Canadian National Railways and asked for a piece of photographic film large enough to cover both eyes of the horse that hauls his delivery wagon. A piece was found among discarded negatives and Dobbin was equipped in an eclipse machine. The driver claimed his horse might look up in search of the sun at the wrong moment and have his eyesight impaired for life by blinding rays.

GROUP INSURANCE

The Commercial Life

—is life insurance provided for the members of any organization at the lowest possible wholesale cost.

—obviates the necessity of "passing the hat" in the event of dependents being left otherwise unprovided for.

—provides for the education and development of children of employees until they are able to take care of themselves, thus reducing the responsibility of the employer.

—not only helps to take care of the dependents of each member of the Group, but also relieves each member of worry regarding the welfare of the families of fellow employees.

—provides protection for each member of the Group, regardless of age or insurability. In this way many who have passed the insurable limit in age, and some who are otherwise uninsurable obtain protection for their families.

—protects each member of the Group while living in the event of total and permanent disability.

THE COST OF GROUP INSURANCE TO EACH MEMBER OF THE GROUP IS TRIVIAL

The Commercial Life specializes on Group Insurance and on account of the high interest earnings and low mortality experienced by a Western company. The Commercial Life pays unshared dividends on its Group Policies.

Taxes—Who Is Responsible For Them?

It is an old saying, and true, that there are at least two things which no person in the world can escape, death and taxes. So far as the former is concerned it is inevitable, it may be postponed by rational living, by observance of the laws of nature and hygiene, by the exercise of "safety first" principles, but, in the end, it cannot be avoided.

Taxes, too, are inevitable if orderly government, a properly organized community, life, and essential public services are to be maintained, but, and this is the important thing, the taxpayers have it within their own power to determine the size and extent of the tax burden they shall carry.

Begin a discussion on the subject of taxation and the chances are that nine out of every ten persons, yes, ninety-nine out of every one hundred, will at once lay the blame for their unduly heavy burden upon Governments, either Federal, Provincial, Municipal, or all three combined. Governments, of course, are partly responsible, but the taxpayers themselves are even more responsible, and it is high time Mr. and Mrs. Taxpayer realized this fact of their responsibility.

In the first place, the taxpayers are responsible for creating the Government. It was their votes which placed the Government in power. It is by virtue of the votes of the taxpayers that Governments continue in office to apply their policies, impose taxes, and spend the proceeds of those taxes, or, contra, are ejected from office. The taxpayers cannot escape this primary responsibility.

Secondly, Governments are constituted of groups of human beings, with all the failings of human beings. Placed in office they naturally desire to stay there, while opposing groups put in office but as naturally desire to get in. All these groups, therefore, angle for the support of a majority of the taxpayers, who are the final arbiters. If one group presents an attractive programme of public works, involving large expenditures, much employment, and consequent free spending of public monies, contrasted with a more conservative and economical programme advocated by an opposing group, and the people endorse the former and reject the latter, it is the taxpayers who are responsible for the ensuing large borrowings on the public credit, the creation of a large public debt, and the resultant heavy taxes to pay the charges on that public debt. The group in office may be responsible for proposing an unwise policy, but the taxpayers themselves set the seal of their approval to that policy and issued instructions that effect be given to it.

In the third place, there has never been a government entrusted with the duties of administering the business of all the people which has not been confronted with demands from the people that do this or that, provide this service or construct that public work, extend financial support to this or that organization or that project. The cabinet of ministers, or municipal council as the case may be, may feel that the action urged upon them is unwise, but if the clamor is loud enough, and the demand of the taxpayers themselves urgent enough, they will, as representatives of the taxpayers and depending upon their support, yield to such demands. The result is more and heavier taxes. Governments must accept responsibility for yielding to such demands when their judgment ordered otherwise,—there are times when it is the duty of Government to resolutely resist public clamor and refuse their demands, even when it means the defeat of the Government and the placing in office of another group which will carry out, those demands,—but the major responsibility rests upon the taxpayers, the voters.

Then these self-same taxpayers make bitter complaint because their taxes are heavy. They discover they cannot pay the taxes imposed upon them by reason of the very expenditures and borrowings they themselves insisted their Governments should make. When it is too late, because the obligations have been incurred and must be met, they demand that their taxes be reduced, or wiped out altogether. And when a responsible Government, entrusted with the preservation of the credit of the Dominion, a Province or a Municipality, declines to do this, because it cannot do so honestly, and if done dishonestly would react to the further disadvantage of the taxpayers, then many of the taxpayers make the further mistake of listening to, and being guided by, other groups which promise to do what is being demanded. In his difficulty Mr. and Mrs. Taxpayer is willing to jump out of the frying pan into the fire.

When the taxpayers make a mistake, either as individuals or collectively as a community, they must pay the penalty. If a child puts its hand in the fire it will suffer pain. They discover they cannot pay the taxes imposed upon them. So, too, the taxpayers cannot tear up an obligation which they have done, or their Governments, acting for them and all too frequently upon their own urgings, and with the approval of the majority, have done for them. They must abide by the consequences.

What they can do, and should do, is set to work to remedy the mistakes made in the best way they can, and sternly resolve not to commit the same mistake again. A little more thought and judgment before plunging into expenditures and debt is the surest method to reduce taxes and keep them down.

When We Slumber

Sleep Seems To Be Controlled By Amount Of Iodine In The Blood

A new idea of what sleep really is—discovery that it seems to be controlled by the amount of iodine in the blood—was reported to the British Association for the Advancement of Science.

Thyroxin, the iodine-containing secretion of the thyroid gland, apparently is the sleep-controlling substance, said Dr. G. S. Carter. It does its work in reverse fashion for artificial sleep-producing drugs, however. Sleep seems to come when the supply of thyroxin in the blood is decreased, not increased.

The winter-long "sleep" or hibernation that is habitual for many animals also seems to be controlled by thyroxin, Dr. Carter said in his experiments shown.

He tried thyroxin on frogs, which have a different temperature, and pulse rate in winter while hibernating than in summer when they are active. In thyroxin was added to the heart of the hibernating frog, its temperature and pulse increased to the summer level. Thyroxin was the only gland secretion that had this effect.

Progress Of Silk Industry

So Far Economic Disturbance Does Not Seem To Have Affected This Business

The silk industry of Canada has so far evidently not been affected by any economic disturbance. In 1931 the value of production of this industry amounted to $18,187,499, an increase of $78,894 or 2.1 per cent. over 1930. There has been an increase in the Canadian silk industry from 1917 to 1931 of over 666 per cent in production, of 1,348 per cent in capital invested, and in the number of employees 661 per cent.

The silk industry of Canada is divided into two distinct branches, real silk and artificial silk. The industry is located entirely in the provinces of Quebec and Ontario, thirteen of the 23 establishments being in the former named province and ten in the latter. The principal items of production are broad silk or piece goods of real silk, of which 8,657,612 yards were made in 1931. Piece goods of artificial goods measured 4,073,434 yards; real silk silures measured 2,938,688 yards and 4,383,899 pounds of silk, artificial silk, yarns and threads and their mixtures were produced.

Soviet Food Industry

Results Of First Seven Months Of This Year Are Unsatisfactory

The work of the food industry to which Soviet Russia looks for its daily meals was called "unsatisfactory" by D. Levitin, member of the collegium of the commissariat of supply, in a report on the results for the first seven months of this year.

In spite of beginning production in several new modernized equipped enterprises adding greatly to the productive capacity, he said, the industry during the first six months of the year exceeded the production for the same period in 1931 by only 6.5 per cent.

This, he said, was "quite insignificant." The 1932 plan calls for an increase of 36 per cent. over the production for 1931.

He blamed the result on bad management, a poor supply of raw materials and carelessness in many enterprises in taking steps to preserve perishables.

DOES OWN HOUSE- WORK AT 70

With the Help of Kruschen

"For nine years now I have used Kruschen Salts and could not do without them. I take a third of a teaspoon in a cup of water as hot as I can drink it. No sickness, no headaches now. I am 70 years of age in April, and just with taking Kruschen Salts am able to do all my household duties myself. I recommend Kruschen to all my neighbors. Before I began taking it I was never away from the doctor, but now I never need him. I used to have sick headaches and then was not able to do anything. But now it is different—thanks to Kruschen Salts."—(Mrs.) J. G.

An end to all Life's minor ills and miseries. No more headaches, tiredness, depression, "nervous" or constipation. Instead, a sensation of delightful freshness, high spirits, happy outlook—in short, sheer good health!

Garnet Wheat

Not Sufficient Evidence To Justify Separate Grading

If Garnet wheat had been repeatedly graded during the past year growers would have had to take a cut in price, asserted Hon. Robert Weir in a statement to the National Agriculture Conference at Toronto.

Contrary to the opinion of the national revenue council said Mr. Weir, the Department of Agriculture he administers had taken the stand there was not sufficient evidence to justify the separate grading of Garnet. The department did not accept the view Canadian wheat was less satisfactory to the United Kingdom millers after Garnet came on the picture.

Mr. Weir declared no person would be more eager to support the separate grading of Garnet wheat than he, if it were beneficial to wheat growers.

Prominent In Politics

Although there is only one lawyer in Canada for every 1,600 people, there is one lawyer in the House of Commons for every four members of other callings. The ratio in the senate is slightly higher and in the provincial legislature it is about the same.

Invention and Idleness

Warning Is Soundly In Connection With Mechanical Progress

Sir Alfred Ewing, president of the British Association for the Advancement of Science, sounded a note of warning to mechanical progress as he opened the 10th annual meeting of the association at York, England.

"We must admit that there is a sinister side even to the peaceful activities of those who in good faith and with the best intentions make it their business to adapt the resources of nature to the use and convenience of man," Sir Alfred said.

Telling of the great progress of the "mechanical age," Sir Alfred declared "man was ethically unprepared for so great a bounty. The command of nature has been put into his hands before he knows how to command himself." He declared that man had lost the joy of craftsmanship because of the machinery of mass production.

"In many cases unemployment is thrust upon the worker, an unemployment that is more saddening than any drug," Sir Alfred continued. The association president, "finds itself glutted with competitive commodities, produced in a quantity too great to be absorbed, though every nation strives to secure at least a home market for its products."

Sir Alfred could not name a remedy for the situation, but declared he refused to think that man is destined to atrophy and cease through cultivating what after all is one of his most God-like faculties, "the creative ingenuity of the engineer."

The president spoke with enthusiasm of the benefits of electrical communication which, he said, had brought distant parts of the earth's population into close contact and sympathy with one another.

Decreasing Revenues

Quebec Reports Deficit For The First Time Since 1896

Decreasing revenues in Quebec were reflected in the annual financial statement of the province recently made public. A deficit of $584,708 has been reported, the first since 1896. The deficit was not wound up in its financial year with a surplus.

The annual statement shows ordinary revenue was $36,941,020.36 while expenditures amounted to $37,525,728.37. The decrease in the revenue as compared with the previous year was $1,589,600.20, compensated for partly by economies effected in various departments of $3,912,824.23.

But Attempt Proved Embarrassing For Service Club Member

It happened at a service club luncheon. The visitor was being introduced at the door. And the usual attempts of being made to make him feel at home.

"Say, haven't I met you before some time? Maybe in business. What's your line?" asked a club member.

"Well, maybe you have met me in business," said the visitor, somewhat bashfully. "I'm with a detective agency."

Then there was a general laugh, as the embarrassed member pushed his way through the crowd.

Many Coins Are Lost

Nothing Surprising About Finds Made In Ancient Toppies

People are often surprised when ancient towns are excavated that so many coins should be found. Well, it is ten thousand years' time archaeologists get busy with their spades in Great Britain, they may be even more astonished. Pennies issued by the Mint during the past 70 years would cover an area a mile in length by nearly half a mile in width, for they numbered 1,760,000,000. How many of these do you think have been lost? The answer is a staggering figure. Not less than 500,000,000. The lost pennies represent the best part of a shilling a head for every man, woman and child of Britain's population.

NEW INVENTION DOES AWAY WITH COOKING ODORS

Even fish and cauliflower bow down to Canapar Cookery Parchment

BETTER, CHEAPER AND EASIER COOKING

Delicious as cauliflower, cabbage and certain other vegetables are, they have imposed a heavy penalty on people who foolishly cooked them. Not to mention those who had to suffer the odor without enjoying the finished product. The same thing is true of fish.

Canapar Cookery Parchment, a very ingenious invention, does away with this annoying odor. It keeps the food in odors, it also retains flavor and food value. Cooking in Canapar actually results in a more delicious meal, without simmering and confining food and its flavor in the closed casserole.

You buy Canapar in a large envelope of handkerchiefs which may be rinsed out and used over and over again because they won't absorb odors. When boiling vegetables, you simply wet the Canapar and make a bag similar to a pudding bag. If you steam them, you line the steamer with Canapar, arrange food and seasonings, and fold back corners of the Canapar to prevent steam from dripping back. You can actually cook three vegetables at once in the same steamer, this way—save time—and the flavors will not intermingle.

Steamed, or boiled, fish, comes out firm, solid and swimming in its own juice. No odors. No sticky steamer or casserole to clean up afterwards.

Line your roasting pan with Canapar, then the fast and juicy can't burn. Meat is more succulent and there is no scouring or scraping of the pan afterwards.

Many women use Canapar for a dish cloth—it is so silky and satisfactory, and doesn't spread lint.

You'll never be without Canapar once you start using it. It saves time and money. It keeps your kitchen clean. The PARASANI Heavy Waxed Paper in the Green Box.

GRAIN EXPORT QUESTION WILL BE DISCUSSED

Winnipeg, Man.—For the purpose of discussing with the grain and milling interests in the United Kingdom and on the continent the standards generally of Canadian export grain, E. R. Ramsay, chairman of the board of grain commissioners for Canada, will shortly leave for Europe.

Inquiries will be made especially into the question of Garnet wheat and practical methods sought for dealing with this variety of grain, either as a separately graded variety, as recommended by the western grain standards board and the agricultural committee of the House of Commons, or as at present graded under the Canada Grain Act, which allows the Garnet to go into the Northern grades of red spring wheat, but not to grade higher than No. 2 Northern.

Mr. Ramsay will be accompanied by J. Raynor, secretary of the board of grain commissioners, and will be met on the other side by Dr. F. J. Birchard, chemist to the board, who has been attending a bread exhibition at Rome.

May Be Deported

Renowned That Doughboy Leader Has Been Served With Papers

Yorkton, Sask.—It has been learned here on high authority that Peter Veregin, Doughboy leader now serving an 18-month term in Prince Albert jail, following a conviction for perjury, has been served with deportation papers by the warden on behalf of the Department of Immigration.

Serving of these papers, it is understood, followed investigation reported to have been made by the Immigration department through the Saskatchewan attorney-general's department. Formal proceedings may require considerable time as there is the right of defence as well as the right of appeal.

Mr. Veregin did not come to Canada direct from Russia, having lived in Germany for a time before sailing from Hamburg. A man prominent in Doughboy affairs stated here recently that Veregin would like nothing better than to return to Germany, as he is a great admirer of the German people.

Under the Immigration Act, a person who is not a Canadian citizen may be deported if he has been convicted of a criminal offence in Canada.

Think Panic Has Passed

Bank Letter Sees a Period Of Reconstruction Ahead

Toronto, Ont.—The Canadian Bank of Commerce, in its monthly news letter, made public here, saw in rising security prices evidence of a period of reconstruction.

"A few important developments," the letter said, "would seem to indicate that the period of panic has passed and that one of reconstruction is ahead."

While the letter made much of the general improvement to international action levelled at the forces of depression, it added conditions through out Canada showed signs of recovery in themselves.

Recovery of sentiment in the west, improved crop conditions and prospects over those of last year, and the willingness of Canadian financial institutions to back sound expansion of business, it said, promised greater activity.

Railway and Truck Problem

Must Give Thirty Days' Notice To Cancel Rate Schedule

Ottawa, Ont.—The board of railway commissioners, in a judgment handed down, appreciated the problems set up by highway truck and water competition, but denied the railways right to cancel freight schedules with less than 30 days notice.

The railways had argued that when freight rates were lowered to meet competition on the promise of shippers that they would use the rails, the bus and water carriers promptly lowered their rates and the shippers failed to redeem their promises. They asked the right to make changes in their schedules with no more than five days' notice.

The commissioners held that the 30-day notice was statutory and could not be disturbed.

Study British Markets

To Take Advantage Of Trade Agreements Reached At Conference
Ottawa, Ont.—At the coming session, parliament will likely be asked to take steps to enable Canada to better participate in the advantages offered by the trade agreements entered into at the Imperial Economic Conference. A careful study of the markets in the United Kingdom is being made by the Department of Agriculture in Ottawa. A campaign for increased hog production is one of the projects under consideration.

One of the surprises has been the low prices for live cattle in the United Kingdom. Canada shipped no cattle to Britain last week and up to this, present the department has received no information of any being shipped this week. The chief reason is that Canadian domestic prices have advanced above United Kingdom prices when shipping costs are taken into consideration.

Despite the 20 per cent duty on Irish cattle, beef prices in Britain are low. Bacon is exceedingly cheap in Britain just now and in great abundance so that its consumption has materially increased. Lamb and mutton are also in great abundance.

A heavy movement of western cattle to the Ontario farms this fall is expected. The live cattle market is always the best in Britain in the spring and with so great an abundance of feed in Ontario this year, plans are being made to buy western cattle, fatten them during the winter and have them ready for export in the spring.

Loading Wheat At Churchill

Fifth Ship Arrives At Northern Port To Load Cargo For Cardiff

Churchill, Man.—After sailing gates, fog, and ice in the North Atlantic and Hudson Strait for a week the S.S. Greifhald of London arrived September 7th, and 20 minutes later was loading 264,000 bushels of wheat for Cardiff.

The Greifhald is the fifth ship to load grain here this year. She expects to discharge her cargo in eight to ten weeks.

Capt. Thomas Griffiths, of the Hainline Lines, said he was bothered somewhat by ice in the strait. This ship does not carry a gyro compass. Officers said such a compass was necessary in Hudson Bay. The M. H. Lady Logan, carrying a party of government geologists of Ottawa who have been working in Chesterfield, is reported off Cape Eskimo, en route here.

Commissioner Of Excise

Toronto Investment Banker To Succeed G. W. Taylor, Who Has Resigned

Ottawa, Ont.—Hugh D. Scully, investment banker, Toronto, will be appointed Dominion commissioner of excise. He will succeed G. W. Taylor, who has resigned.

Mr. Scully will bring to his new duties a wide experience in finance and business. For some time he was associated with the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, occupying the position of assistant secretary in that organization. He was also active in connection with the automotive industry, and since 1922 has been a member of the firm of Stewart, Scully, Company, investment bankers.

Mr. Taylor retires from the post of commissioner of excise on October 1.

Western Wheat Production

Estimate For This Year Places Crop At 426,815,000 Bushels

Winnipeg, Man.—The wheat fields of western Canada will produce 426,815,000 bushels of wheat this year, according to the annual estimate of grain crops compiled by the Winnipeg Free Press. Saskatchewan's production is placed at 217,002,000 bushels, Alberta's at 168,120,500 bushels, and Manitoba's at 14,090,500.

Although the Saskatchewan wheat acreage is the largest of the three, the estimated average yield in that province is lower than in the others. It is placed at 14 bushels to the acre.

Estimates on coarse grain crops place the oat yield in the three provinces at 257,101,000 bushels; barley at 66,445,800 bushels; rye at 9,573,800 bushels, and flax at 3,165,500 bushels.

Manchester Cotton Strike

Employers Have Expressed A Willingness To Arbitrate

Manchester, England.—A ray of hope appeared in the Lancashire weavers' situation when employers expressed a willingness to arbitrate. During the meeting, lasting half an hour, the Cotton Spinners and Manufacturers Association central committee drafted its reply to the offer of Sir Henry Bettelton, Minister of Labor, to sponsor a meeting with union leaders. The association said it would attend such a meeting, if invited.

A union representative commented that the action was a surprise and the employers had gone further toward settlement of the issues than was expected.

TO INVESTIGATE SHORTAGES IN COLLEGE FUNDS

Winnipeg, Man.—Investigation by a judicial committee of facts surrounding shortages in University of Manitoba endowment funds was unofficially promised by Hon. R. A. Hoey, Minister of Education and acting premier. Mr. Hoey also stated he would recommend restoration of university funds.

"The government will undoubtedly make restitution of the funds at some time in the future," Mr. Hoey said, "but they cannot, of course, do so until after the matter has been thoroughly threshed out in the courts and by a judicial commission, if, as I understand it, it is the intention of the government to appoint such a commission to fix the ultimate responsibility for the losses."

"It is not a question for decision by any one member of the cabinet, it must await the decision of the cabinet as a whole."

The inquiry in connection with the university monies will have no bearing on the similar position of the Anglican church. This will be dealt with by church authorities. Rev. Canon S. Gould, Toronto, general secretary of the missionary society of the Church of England in Canada, held a conference with His Grace Archbishop I. O. Stringer of the diocese of Rupert's Land. He will also spend some time in the west discussing the missionary society's work with heads of the missionary dioceses.

UNITED STATES AMBASSADOR TO CANADA RESIGNS

It is with regret that Canadians learn of the resignation of Col. MacNider, United States Ambassador to the Dominions, who will return to Washington. Col. and Mrs. MacNider have become very popular at the Canadian Capital. The Ambassador is pictured above (left) with a close-up of Mrs. MacNider.

POPULAR REAR ADMIRAL

It is understood that Rear Admiral Evans, "Evans of the Broke" fame, is to succeed Vice Admiral H. J. Twiddle as Commander-in-Chief of the African Station of the British Navy. The popular Rear Admiral is pictured above.

Evils Of Waste

Lord Beesborough Refers To Economic Troubles Of The World

Vancouver, B.C.—Evil of waste—waste of substance, of opportunity, and most important of all, waste of energy and human effort through lack of co-ordination—that, in the opinion of Lord Beesborough, governor-general of Canada, is the worst of all evils from which the world is suffering.

So he expressed himself in an address here recently before a gathering of city service clubs.

"It is a very fashionable amusement nowadays to try to diagnose maladies from which the world is suffering. Nearly all of us fancy ourselves world doctors and like to think we could put things right if we were allowed to administer our own particular economic pill, our own financial tonic," said his excellency.

"Though we may differ about the right cure, though we are by no means unanimous about symptoms, there is one general principle on which I think we are agreed—that is: One of the worst evils we have to overcome is waste."

Men Return To Work

C.P.R. Shop Departments, Winnipeg, Operating On Short Time

Winnipeg, Man.—Nearly 1,200 employees of the Canadian Pacific Railway's locomotive department here, returned for 12 days' work in September, in addition to the 700 men of the car department who were taken on again on September 1 to work for 21 days, according to an announcement of the company.

All men will continue to be employed on the basis of a 40-hour week and no extra help will be taken on the announcement added.

The employees of the car department worked 22 days in August, a considerable increase over the previous month, made possible by the necessity of preparing additional grain cars to take care of the large grain crop expected this year.

Tariff Helps Canada

Ottawa, Ont.—Considerable benefit to Canadian trade with Australia is seen in the tariff amendments introduced in the commonwealth budget according to the Canadian trade commissioner at Melbourne, D. H. Ross.

Beauharnois Project

Plans Approved For Expenditure Of Fifty Million Dollars

Ottawa, Ont.—Plans for the general works of the $50,000,000 Beauharnois project have been approved by the Dominion Government. Official announcement to this effect was made recently.

The plans given the stamp of approval include the 14-mile Beauharnois canal between Lake St. Louis and Lake St. Francis, near Montreal, which will shortly be conveyed by the company to the Dominion.

Passing of the order-in-council sanctioning the plans removes any obstacle in the way of the Beauharnois concern fulfilling its contract with the Ontario Hydro commission on October 1. According to the terms of this contract the company will make 35,000 horse-power available on that date for the use of the commission.

This amount is to be increased gradually until a total of 250,000 horse-power is placed at the disposal of the Hydro authorities at the end of five years.

Signing of the agreement by the Dominion and the company for the transfer of the canal to Canada is expected to take place shortly.

Relief For Veterans

To Be Equalized

Will Be On Same Basis As For Others

Ottawa, Ont.—Relief to war pensioners, where less than granted to civilians by municipalities, will be placed on the same relief basis that granted by the municipalities, the department of pensions and national health announces, in confirmation of the principle, announced at Calgary by the Prime Minister.

Mr. Bennett was quoted as having said that the unemployed veterans would have their pensions increased to conform with the relief rate paid by municipalities. This, the department officials explained, was technically incorrect. Not the pension rate but the relief rate would be raised, they said.

Veterans, receiving small pensions, were barred from receipt of relief and received less than other unemployed. The attention of Premier Bennett was drawn to the situation by a resolution sent him by the Winnipeg Legion command.

UNION CABINET PLAN MAY SOLVE B. C. DIFFICULTIES

Victoria, B.C.—Premier Talmie of British Columbia stepped out upon the traditionally treacherous ice of "union government" with the supporters of such a move confident that the footing has been made more secure by the rigid exigencies of the times, and with the confident march of the National Government in England to assure them.

The premier said he would shortly issue a statement which will include a clause favoring the establishment of a union government composed of "men, who, regardless of other considerations, appear to be able to render the best service to the state," and "along the lines of the National Government in England," as the best method of meeting present conditions.

The announcement is the first break in the hazy atmosphere of political rumor that has enveloped the province for many months. Those who have stood undecided as to what would happen and what they would do when it did happen, must soon declare themselves, and the electorate will presumably have an early chance to say whether they have done well.

Though events may be expected to move rapidly, some little time will probably be necessary to clarify the situation. It is not thought that Premier Talmie's plans are clear-cut as yet. He is conferring with W. J. Bowser, K.C., former Conservative premier, who is regarded as playing an important role in the situation.

In all probability the premier will go ahead with his plans regardless of who joins or who stays out. In the ordinary course of events the legislature would be called together, the new government's programme presented, and an appeal made to the people on it.

Every possible combination of public men has been suggested as the likely members of the new government, but beyond the presumption that certain members of the present government will go out, and certain Liberals will come in, forecast is futile.

MEAGRE RESULTS OBTAINED FROM ARMS PARLEY

Newcastle, England.—Disappointment and dissatisfaction is widespread in England and other countries over the meagre results of the first six months of effort at the world disarmament conference at Geneva, Arthur Henderson, Labor leader, and president of the disarmament conference, told the Trades Union Congress here.

It was Mr. Henderson's first public announcement on disarmament since the adjournment of the Geneva conference. He said he frankly confessed the results were far from what he had expected.

A critical situation was created, he said, by Germany's demand for arms equality. The suggestion was made that Germany leave the conference, he said, because it would now be impossible to achieve success there; but this course, he added, would mean disaster.

"It would lead certainly," he said, "to a renewal and intensification of the old competitive race for armaments."

Although the results to date were not encouraging, he added, it is too early to declare the conference a failure. "I have refused to contemplate failure and cannot do so now," he said.

There has never been a conference with a greater public opinion behind it than this.

The Wheat Preference

Question Of Great Importance To Western Grain Growers

Ottawa, Ont.—Will the five-cent preference on Canadian wheat entering Britain apply only to wheat exported through Canadian ports? This question is being actively canvassed at Ottawa and there is a good deal of variation in opinion between the different departments.

The question is of importance to western grain growers, since the preference will probably come into operation early in October, before the new crop is really in the export field.

The department of national revenue, which administers the Canadian tariff, is inclined to think that any Canadian wheat proceeding to Uxwader through the United States in bond will win the preference. The trade and commerce department, however, takes a different view, believing that the British Government may insist upon export through Canadian ports and in British bottoms.

The trade and commerce department points out that what is responsible to identify in similar circumstances, the Canadian customs service has imposed full tariff upon Canadian goods, Lumber sent from British Columbia to Ontario through the United States has been taxed the maximum duties on the ground that nobody could tell if it was Canadian or U.S. lumber.

Just how the wheat preference will work will not be clear until the conference treaties are approved by the British Parliament, the wheat preference committee and the regulations governing it issued.

Population Of Vancouver

Greater Vancouver Population Now Given As 308,340

Ottawa, Ont.—Population contained within the area designated as Greater Vancouver, according to the census of 1931, is placed at 308,340. It is reported by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. The distribution by locations is: Burnaby district municipality, 25,644; North Westminister city, 17,524; North Vancouver district municipality, 4,788; West Vancouver district municipality, 4,786; North Vancouver city, 8,510; University endowment area, 575; Vancouver city, 246,593.

Not So Many Failures

New York.—What is described as an "astounding drop" in business failures is reported by Bradstreet's Weekly, covering the final week of August. Failures dropped from 557 the preceding week to 425 for the week ended September 1. It was the smallest total for any week since November, 1931.

Vira, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Ash, passed away at Coleman on Monday, aged twenty years. On August 31st, she was operated upon for trouble which developed from an operation for appendicitis performed at Nelson about a year ago, and appeared to be progressing. Late Sunday, she took a sudden turn and collapsed, her death coming at 2 a.m. Monday. Funeral was held yesterday afternoon, the remains being laid to rest in the Coleman Union cemetery.

After a lot of loud talking and stalling by both parties, the strike of miners affecting the West Canadian Collieries at Blaimore and Bellevue came to an end Labor Day when an agreement for two years was signed, dating back from April. Neither party seems to have gained anything by the strike. There has been a lot of bitterness and hardship. Premier Brownlee mediated between the two factions and his recommendations were practically the basis of agreement.—Clareholm Local Press.
